

THE MCNEEL CEMETERY
Pocahontas County, West Virginia

Grave of John Bruffey. Other than the grave of John and Martha McNeel, believed to be located next to the grave of the baby's father, this is the oldest identified grave in the McNeel Cemetery. The tombstone reads: JOHN BRUFFEY, NATIVE OF IRELAND AND REVOLUTIONIST UNDER GEN. "B" WAYN. U.S.A. DIED 1807 AGED 55.

THE MCNEEL CEMETERY

Travellers along today's Route 219 north of Hillsboro can easily see the McNeel Cemetery located on a knoll to the west of the highway. Going to the cemetery, the visitor can view both the fine farmland within the area we now call the Little Levels as well as the mountains that are the defining geographical features of this region.

Looking at today's farms we can understand the attraction of this area of level land, good soil, and ample water to people whose livelihood depended on agriculture and were looking for a place to obtain their own land. Looking at the mountains we can appreciate the difficulties the first European settlers had to overcome to make this area their home as well as perhaps why the Native Americans chose not to make year-round use of the region. (However, they naturally declined to willingly give up this land they had used for centuries to the newcomers.)

It is not known whether John McNeel came in 1765 to an area he was already familiar with or came by chance but those of us who are his descendants do appreciate his choice of a home.

Within a few years of establishing his farm, a site overlooking his house was selected for the White Pole Meeting House. In 1774 the first burial is believed to have been made in the church yard to start the McNeel Cemetery. Based on the stones, the second oldest known burial in the cemetery was that of John Bruffey in 1807. (However, it would seem there would have been others between 1774 and 1807.)

The property surrounding the cemetery has remained in the McNeel Family since the time of John McNeel. Most, if not all of the home place farm, came in two land grants. The first was for 322 acres in July, 1780 and the other was for 1275 acres, date unknown, but before 1798. In years after the death of John McNeel, the land was divided and by the end of the Civil War the farm consisted of less than 100 acres. Matthew John McNeel bought back much of the land of the original farm and at his death it consisted of about 1000 acres. Dr. John McNeel and Richard McNeel also purchased parts of the original tracts and today the farm contains about 1400 acres.

In the following list of the gravestones in the McNeel Cemetery, the names are listed alphabetically by family and then given in order of birth. The names and other family information are given as they are on the stones although dates have been put in a standard numerical form. No attempt has been made to record Biblical verses or other inscriptions on the stones.

An effort has been made to find a reference for each person in one of the published books giving family history for Pocahontas County. If a book reference could not be found, the parents of the person are given when they could be determined. The books referred to are the following:

HPC - History of Pocahontas County, West Virginia 1981, published by the Pocahontas County Historical Society, Taylor Publishing Co., Dallas, Texas, 1981

MFR - The McNeel Family Record, by Betsy Jordan Edgar, McClain Printing Co., Parsons, W. Va., 1967

HSPC - Historical Sketches of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, by William T. Price, Price Brothers, Marlinton, W. Va., 1901

Other references are:

BR - Pocahontas County birth records at the County Court House in Marlinton

DR - Pocahontas County death records at the County Court House in Marlinton
Marriage dates are from the Pocahontas County marriage records, the court house and from Pocahontas County Marriage Bonds and Returns by James and Rita Wooddell, 1988.
The obituaries referred to were found in the back issues of The Pocahontas Times.

GRAVES OF SLAVES

A section of the cemetery on the north is supposed to be where slaves are buried. As a continuation of their sad status in society while living, there are not even markers of some sort to mark their passing from this life.

In the county death records there are references to two slaves who are probably buried in this cemetery, but this tells nothing of their lives.

George
(Died 7/23/1858, age 26, owned by William L. McNeel)

Henry
(Died 12/15/1860, age 70+, owned by Paul McNeel)

STONES WITH NO NAMES

There are several existing stones with no names. Among them are:

A small stone beside the graves of Samuel and William Clark.

A stone in line with the stones for the three Silva children, but of an older style.

GRAVES WITH NO STONES

In any old cemetery there are people buried whose identities are no longer known. Many never had stones placed on their graves or the stones have disappeared over the years. The McNeel Cemetery is no exception to this and there is no doubt the number of burials exceeds the number of existing stones.

There is reasonable evidence that the following are among those who lie in the McNeel Cemetery in unmarked graves.

(MFR p 272, 274, HPC p 364, 8/7/1907 - 9/15/1992, no stone as of this writing)

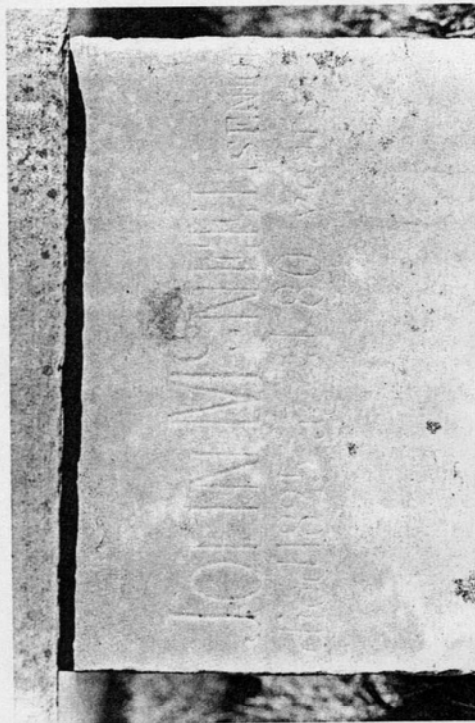

The location of the first burial in the McNeel Cemetery, the unnamed infant of John and Martha McNeel who died in October 1774, is believed to be beneath a coffin-shaped stone that lies between the graves of Rachel McNeel, on the left, and John McNeel, on the right. Behind the infant's grave is the stone for the grave of Elizabeth McNeel and to the left is the grave of Abraham McNeel. The area behind these graves is thought to be the location of the "White Pole Meeting House," the church constructed by John McNeel within the first few years after he settled in the Little Levels. From this building came the still worshipping Methodist congregation at the Wesley Chapel Church in Hillsboro. The building was used until about 1830.

Grave of John McNeel, the Pioneer of the Little Levels.

Headstone for the grave of John McNeel "JOHN MCNEEL, SENIOR died 1825 aged 80 years."

Grave of Martha Davis McNeel, the wife of John McNeel.

Headstone for the grave of Martha McNeel "MARTHA MCNEEL died 1831 aged 48 years."
